Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 04 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cloud thickening, with outbreaks of rain.

Today:
Some morning sunshine possible, before thickening cloud spreads north with outbreaks of rain. These turning persistent in places, and perhaps heavy at times through the afternoon, mainly along the Essex coast. The odd rumble of thunder cannot be ruled out. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain and cloud only gradually clearing east through the evening, however most parts dry by dawn. Perhaps the odd patch of mist or fog possible where skies clear. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Saturday:
Mist or fog patches soon lifting, with any rain also clearing east. A dry day follows, with sunny spells and variable cloud. The best of the sunshine in the west. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Warm sunny spells and variable cloud expected through the period, although perhaps cloudier on Sunday. Many parts staying dry, but the risk of showers throughout. Rather chilly overnight periods.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.